Contest Without Precedent

There is no precedent for the kind of contest the presidential candidates and their managers are engaged in this year. Their experiments will determine precedent, if the United States ever again must hold a national election in wartime. While Abraham Lincoln was re-elected in wartime, it is obvious that conditions have changed so greatly that his experience can shed no light on the election this year.

We may find out more concerning what candidates think from what they do than from what they say. Thus, going into the last three weeks, it is highly significant that Mr. Roosevelt and his managers are letting it be known quietly that they are expecting to make more public appearances than they were expected to make as recently as a week ago. This is evidence that their confidential reports from the field—a number of party men have been making first-hand inspections recently—confirm what the public opinion polls show. It looks like a close election. A few speeches and appearances in the right places in the right states may make the difference.

Four years ago at the same point in the campaign, the Republican candidate announced he would make 55 more speeches. Mr. Roosevelt was on his now famous "non-political" inspection trip of defense plants and announced there would be six major speeches during the remainder of the campaign. By comparison, Mr. Roosevelt this year is definitely signed up for only one speech, at a banquet, and Gov. Dewey's most recent announcement mentions forthcoming appearances in five different states, but with probably not any more than the same number of major speeches. Since this is no change from the general outline of his plan as previously announced, it may be assumed that he is satisfied with the way his campaign is going, whereas Mr. Roosevelt is beginning to be somewhat uneasy.

Both candidates have had to feel their way, but if public opinion polls may be taken seriously they suggest that the experiment of relative silence so far has seemed to favor Mr. Dewey. The reason is not hard to ascertain. Mr. Dewey is the beneficiary of the New Deal record—all the things that cannot be eliminated with oratory—all the popular resentment against things about the Roosevelt administration that are not matters of opinion, but matters of history. In their frantic attempt to check this trend against them, New Dealers have gone all the way back to Herbert Hoover and even beyond—even to the Wall Street bogey—for old resentments, but the fact remains that in 1944 they are running on their own record. And the further fact is that they are trying to force their chances of rounding out 16 years on the promise of more of the same.

Apology To Paperhangers

They have not been visibly affected, but inwardly paperhangers must feel the shame which Adolf Hitler's connection with their trade has cast upon it. They have the sympathy of newspapermen especially, because it is in the record that Benito Mussolini once was a toiler of the press.

But worse than Hitler's one-time association with them is the persistently derisive tone in which his paperhanging background usually is mentioned—as much as to say that he was a stable hand, a dish washer, or perhaps only a street cleaner. The truth is, there is nothing unworthy about paperhanging. It is one of the noblest of the minor arts. A good paperhanger, moreover, is one of the hardest things to find among the minor artists—and one will get you 500 that if German newspapers had checked up carefully before the damage was done, they would have discovered that Hitler made a botch of his paperhanging. That fact, revealed in time, might have saved millions of lives. We cannot imagine even the compliant Germans voting ya for a paperhanger who botched his work.

The Manhour

It may be of interest to scholars leafing through the dusty records of our times that it was late in the year 1944 before the first manhour was sighted in this country. Its ancestor was a "man hour," a statistical robot which broke away from its keepers and reverted to type in the high grass which was kept from growing in the streets by the 40-hour work week. What finally emerged when the word coined began to beat the bushes was a manhour, a beast with no hyphen, no particular shape and marvelous elasticity.

In the folklore of the times, a manhour was said to be able to do as much work in one hour as a man, but the scholars will not understand how that could be, because by the time they get interested in the curious things that happened to us there will be no such thing as a man or an hour. There will be nothing but manhours, anti-aircraft guns, workweeks and postwar security.

The Stars Say

For Wednesday, October 18.

THE forecast is for a day on which the energies and initiative should be concentrated upon laying safe and enduring foundations for the future fortunes and security. Serious judgment, well-laid plans and soundly carried constructive ideas and objectives, supported by industry and diligence should yield rich rewards, despite some side stepping of rules and regulations, possibly in favor of a bit of stratagem or wire-pulling, in which the public or community might be concerned. Be wise with writings and credit.

Those whose birthday it is should be ready to grasp a definite opportunity to place the affairs, possessions and future on a firm and enduring foundation. This may occur by mobilizing all the skill, resources, energies and initiative, with well worked out plans and sound objectives. This might be by means of constructive and practical ventures or in safe and sound investments. Intrigue or strategy may play a part, especially where public work of interests may be at issue.

A child born on this day may possess startling qualities, with initiative, enterprise and perseverance for attaining assets in life, with happiness as well.

Caesar's Triumph

By James Thrasher

James Caesar Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians, has set a pattern as well as a precedent in his answer to President Roosevelt's mild and respectful request that he obey a long-standing War Labor Board order. We hope the pattern won't be followed. But apparently it can be, and with impunity.

If you don't like a WLB order, all you do is say "No." Don't let it bother you if you had agreed earlier that you would say "Yes" if the President of the United States asked you nicely. You can squirm out of it or just ignore it. Of course you want to be sure that you're a union official and not an employer, and that the government isn't going to take over the plant where your members are working.

You might give your reasons for refusal, as Mr. Petrillo has done. He says that to lift his recording ban would permit two unsigned recording companies to resume manufacture, "with resulting tremendous profits to them," and take business from firms that have knuckled down to his demands for royalty payments—payments which don't go to the musicians who make the records.

Mr. Petrillo is not only defying the government. He is also dictating what firms can be in the recording business, and steering the profits where he wants to see them go. And the profits he withholds are considerable, since the two unsigned companies are Columbia and RCA-Victor, the oldest and biggest manufacturers in the field.

As a preliminary to his ban, Mr. Petrillo compelled the greatest instrumental artists in music to join his union. Most of them joined reluctantly, since their fees are considerably above union "scale" and the union could do absolutely nothing for them except collect their dues.

Most of these artists have stuck with Victor and Columbia, and haven't recorded since. The public would like to hear them on some new discs. But Mr. Petrillo has never seemed to worry unduly about what the public wants. The signed-up companies, he says, "are now supplying the public with all necessary recordings." And that's that.

On the same day that Mr. Petrillo answered the President, Undersecretary of War Patterson told some striking machinists that "the government of the United States will not be coerced by any group." But coercion is just what Mr. Petrillo is using. Seemingly the only way the government can get its agency's order enforced is to rescind that order and make Columbia and Victor settle on Mr. Petrillo's terms.

So now what happens?

Ideas of how to punish Hitler are being printed now, so here's ours: a cell with a barb-wire rug.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

A Common Disease

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
PSORIASIS is a chronic skin disease which is very common. It occurs almost exclusively in adults, who are otherwise in the best of health. In any large skin clinic about five per cent of the patients will be suffering from psoriasis. Although many people think psoriasis is contagious it is not. There is no danger from coming into contact with people with psoriasis. As far as anybody knows it is hereditary or at least tends to occur in families. What Oliver Wendell Holmes said is applicable here: "We are all omnibuses in which our ancestors ride; every now and then one of them sticks his head out and embarrasses us."

Not that there need be anything embarrassing about psoriasis, although many of its victims seem to think there is. It is unquestionably an unsightly eruption. The sore of psoriasis is usually round or oval, varying from the size of a pea to the size of a coin, even to large patches covering extensive areas of the body. Some of them are ring-like, enclosing areas of normal appearing skin. They never form blisters and heal without scarring, or does it itch in most instances, nor cause any constitutional disturbances. It disturbs the victim's peace of mind because it is so mysterious and unsightly.

No Permanent Cure

In location it often grows around the nail bed and often causes brittle, scaling nails. Frequently in this location it is mistaken for ringworm, even by doctors.

Everyone who has it wants to know the cure. My mail always contains three or four letters a day from people who think I must be in on a secret that their own doctor doesn't know. It is very flattering but I do not know any secret. The writers of these letters seem to think there must be a method of curing their affliction. It goes away leaving perfectly healthy skin where before there was an eruption. It usually goes away in the summer, and the victim the first time or two thinks he is rid of it forever, but the next winter there it is sitting on the doorstep of the victim's peace of mind.

While permanent cure is unrealizable, ideal proper management can make the patient much more comfortable. It appears in an acute and a chronic form. In the chronic form bathing and removal of the scales with a soft, bristled brush is indicated. Applications of medicine to the affected skin areas are usually of an irritating kind and may have to be rubbed in very vigorously.

Sunlight Helpful

Natural sunlight is a good form of treatment. So is salt water bathing, so the person at the seaside has all the advantages. A complete sunbath is curative in the limited sense that it may drive the disease away for several years.

A diet rich in vegetables and low in proteins and fats is beneficial in some cases. Large doses of vitamins, more than that which would under any ordinary circumstances be in the diet have also proved valuable in many instances. Especially used are vitamins A, C and D. Large doses of Vitamin B or thiamine chloride in combination with a low fat diet have helped in preventing recurrences.

All this seems very logical because when one sees a case of psoriasis one instantly thinks that it must be nutritional origin—perhaps from the endocrine or ductless glands.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
R. S.: Is there a permanent cure for a ruptured intervertebral disk causing sciatica?

Answer: In the course of time the condition usually adjusts itself.

J. A. S.: My son has to have a hydrocele operation and from my friends I was told it has an after effect. Is this true?

Answer: These kind-hearted, gloom-spreading, know-it-all neighbors! I presume it was your doctor who advised the operation. Do you think he would have done so if he thought there would be bad after effects? Or do you prefer to believe the dreadful warnings of some old fool who never even studied physiology in high school?

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. YOU GOTTA THINK QUICK

THE STORY: Virgil Boggio, big-time racketeer, needs legal advice from shyster Leo Kabateck. This is the inside story of his vast enterprises, putting him somewhat in Kabateck's power.

III

I SAT there for two solid hours listening to him and by the time he got through I had smoked up a whole pack of cigarettes. My body was shaking in sweat and my head was spinning. I didn't know whether I was nuts or something.

It was the most incredible story I had ever heard of racketeering. The entire structure of the racket organization had been revealed to me, and now many things that I had always puzzled me about suddenly became clear. I'd been all along that his business was strictly on the level.

I'd seen my eyes to what I thought was petty and even grand theft. But I hadn't realized to what extent Boggio had made a career of crime and cold-blooded murder.

Having talked himself out, Boggio seemed to feel better. I guess it was the first time he'd ever confessed that much to any human being. But now I began to wonder if he wouldn't have been better for me if he had remained just as before. Boggio's the kind of guy who'll turn the shirt off his back. And he'll send you a bill for it.

"Well," he said, leaning back in his chair, "now you know every-

MEN'S MEETING AT LEETONIA PLANNED

LEETONIA, Oct. 17.—The I. O. O. F. chapter of St. Paul's Lutheran church will sponsor a men's meeting at the church parlors Thursday evening at 7:30. Rev. P. Langner will speak on the subject, "Values and Vices of the Times." Sgt. Richard Caldwell, who has spent 18 months with the Marines in the South Pacific, will tell of his experiences. The committee in charge are Ira Blosser, G. Weikart, Charles Anglemeyer and C. J. Spotholc.

Leetonia chapter O. E. S. met at the Masonic temple last evening. Members of the degree staff of D. R. Rebeck lodge are urged to be present for practice at the O. O. F. hall Tuesday evening. Reception will be held on Oct. 31. The monthly birthday party will follow the meeting.

Home From Pacific

Sgt. Richard Caldwell, U.S.M.C., who has spent the past 18 months in the South Pacific, is spending a day furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Caldwell, south of town. Miss Eunice Caldwell, who is employed at Dayton, spent the weekend with her parents. Miss Claribel Briel of Salem spent Sunday with William P. Wilford and daughter, Florence. Miss Vera Holloway, a nurse at St. Luke's hospital, Cleveland, is spending a short vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Holloway, south of town.

All mankind, according to Prof. C. Hadden, ethnologist, can be divided into three kinds—woolly, wavy hair, straight hair.

Busy Guy

With U. S. aerial forces striking almost continuously at the Japanese islands throughout the Pacific, keeping score of Jap planes downed has become almost a full-time job for Yank carrier seamen like the one above pictured stenciling up "meatballs" that tell number of Jap planes destroyed after U. GETTING RESULTS

Classified

He wasn't fooling me. I knew that in spite of all he'd told me he'd also withheld plenty. To start with he hadn't used many names. Whenever possible he proceeded along the lines of his former statements. He'd say things like "a certain corporation" and "some fellow" and I knew he meant a gang and some thug or trigger man.

I now began to understand why he'd singled me out for these confidences. I knew that he had other mouthpieces working for him—men much older and far more experienced than I was. But he didn't trust any of them. He didn't trust me either, for that matter, but I was the one least likely to sell him down the river. At any rate that's what he'd figured on.

I got up from my chair, fumbled for a cigarette and then noticed they were all gone. I walked over to the window and looked down into the street.

"Nice view," said Boggio.

"Yes," I said. I walked across the room a couple of times and then sat down again.

"Suppose a fellow got cold feet," I said, "and suppose he wanted to back out of a proposition that didn't look very healthy for him?"

"I wouldn't advise it," said Boggio quickly, "especially if he'd once been involved in something for which he'd signed a confession. And I also don't think he ought to leave his best friend when he's most needed."

That was a good one, Boggio talking about friendship.

"If a fellow like that got hurt," he continued, "I'd say it was a case of Divine Justice." Boggio was actually waxing lyrical on me. I wondered where he'd picked up the two-bit expression.

"Don't you think so?" he concluded.

"Sure, sure," I said hastily. "I was just wondering."

We talked some more and it was decided I'd have until next day to digest the facts that had been imported to me. We would then get down to business and define our new and closer relationship. I was also to make him a proposition along financial lines and tell him just how much I expected for my services. He assured me that from that standpoint I didn't have to worry. He was generous and I could expect a square deal from him.

Boggio took my arm as we walked back to the living room. He had never done that before and I suppose he meant it as a friendly gesture.

There are certain periods in your life when you know a very definite change is going to take place. This was one of them, and I couldn't help being in a sort of daze. To start with, there was the knowledge that Boggio was a far greater louse than I'd ever imagined him to be.

On the other hand there was the realization that I was within grasp of big dough without actually doing anything which would directly involve me in the more seamy side of Boggio's enterprises. It made me think of the story of the fellow who's asked what he'd do if he only had to wish for the death of a wealthy Chinaman he'd never seen and whose sole heir he'd become.

I'd often wondered what I'd do if I were faced with that particular predicament, and here it was staring me in the face. I believe I know something about human nature and I'm convinced that you can judge men by the figure for which they will sell themselves out. Some will do it for five bucks and some for five million. Some for a dame they can't get out of their system. But there's a price tag on practically everybody, and those who don't have one are the exceptions to prove the rule. They're also saps.

The price for which I was prepared to sell out was a pretty stiff one. That already made me a fairly moral person. And moreover I could always talk myself into the idea that Boggio was exercising moral coercion on me. If I fell out of line he could use that confession he hi-jacked out of me when I was too dumb to know better. The thing to do now was figure out just what my price was.

BEGINS WOMAN'S WORK EARLY

AT THE RIPE AGE OF SIX WEEKS (not months), says good authority, Miss Evelyn Walls does the family wash—long enough, at least, for this picture to be made. Her father, Joseph Walls of Los Angeles, swears she's called him "Daddy", and he joins with Mrs. Walls in vowing that "pushing up" from a prone position and standing alone for a full minute are easy for extraordinary Evelyn.

The radio man had completely disappeared. The ship's chutes were gone and one bomb still was lodged in the bomb bay.

A torn right tire, badly damaged inboard fuel tanks and ripped and torn trailing edges of the wings flailed in the slipstream.

The crew couldn't bail out. "The ship should be breaking in two—only faith will get us home," reported the engineer. Jerry still attacked and the crew fought steadily. The home base was 600 miles away.

In landing, the pilot used the jammed ball turret guns, which were pointed downward, as a tail skid. The plane made a near three-point landing, bouncing along the runway on its flat tire.

A loud whistle came from crew members as they clambered out and viewed the wreckage. Accompanying photographs tell the story.

Gene E. Padden, Boeing's field service engineer just back from eight months overseas, helping to put the damaged Fortress back on their bombing runs said: "The big amazement in my life has been the manner in which the B-17's get home minus vital parts and just hanging together."

Salem-Struthers, Columbiana-Boardman Top Week's Slate

Big Red Seeks To Surprise Quakers Friday, Clippers Out To Take Important Loop Try

From early indications of the set-ups in the 11-game schedule listed for this district's week of scholastic football, the Salem-Struthers clash is the top-notch show in these parts Friday night and the Columbiana-Boardman Tri-County league fray headlines the Saturday attractions.

An added punch of that "desire to win" is the telling feature of the Quaker-Big Red clash at Reilly stadium here Friday. Beaten last year, 13-12, in a thrilling encounter here, the Struthers outfit comes to town more powerfully equipped and with a much more impressive record than they boasted at this time in 1943.

Over in Boardman the Columbiana visit is being gravely considered as a real problem. Superior by far to any Clipper outfit of the last few years, Coach Johnny Cabas and his lads are pointing for what would be an all-important victory in their string of Tri-County league wins.

Unmolested for several years by league competitors, Boardman is out to re-capture the title again this season. Both the Clippers and Boardman have dropped one game in six and are determined that one will be the last. Neither has lost a league start.

Salem's test Friday won't be easy. That is for sure. The Big Red, among which are numerous lads who trained under Coach Ben Barrett at Struthers three years ago, have a certain "yen" to post a win over their former mentor.

Last year they nearly completed the feat, leading 12-0 at the half and finally losing out 13-12 by the end of the contest. The small margin of victory depleted Salem's prestige considerably last year, but this season the Big Red plans to make its power felt more severely by the Quakers.

Other district tries this week include another "breather" for the East Liverpool Pottery before their stiff test against Martins Ferry next week. The Girard Indians, having trouble this year, travel to Patterson field Friday for another chance at the Pottery. SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Tuesday PM quarterback.... From the looks of Saturday's scores, Army and Notre Dame will come up to their annual tussle without knowing how good they are.... The big score so far don't prove whether they're so good or the opposition so bad.... And how about Washington with 247 points in four games.... and then comes Southern California.... Navy's coaches must feel like the guys who normally inhabit such football hotspots as Columbus, O., or Baton Rouge, La., during the Huey Long regime.... Before every season the fans told them they had a world-beater team and they'd better watch out of they lost even one game.

Pat O'Dea's Amazing 60-Yard Dropkick While On Dead Run Ended Minnesota Grid Game

BY RED GRANGE

The Original Man-in-Motion

Football history is replete with phenomenal plays but perhaps the most spectacular was the 60-yard drop-kick that broke the heart of a great Minnesota team on a bleak mid-November day in 1899. Making it all the more remarkable, the field goal was kicked by Wisconsin's legendary Pat O'Dea while on the dead run.

The traditional rivals had battled furiously without a score through the first half. Early in the second, O'Dea, with the ball deep in Minnesota territory, knotted the game with a 30-yard dropkick.

O'Dea made a fair catch and attempted a 50-yard place-kick which missed by inches.

In those days fair catches offered the only chance to place-kick goals except after touchdowns. With their amazing kicking Kangaroo on the premises,

Wisconsin players were always on the alert for them anywhere within 10 yards of the goal line.

Minnesota brought the ball in 25 yards and kicked. O'Dea made a running catch 10 yards beyond mid-field—the gridiron was 110 yards from goal line to goal line—then deftly eluded speedy young Gil Dobie, who arrived almost simultaneously with the ball and started a dash toward the left.

With other Gobbers bearing swiftly down upon him, O'Dea took a quick sprint toward the goal posts—and dropped the ball!

Greatest Individual Play

As the ball hit the ground a thump resounded and it went sailing like a tiny blimp diagonally down the field. As it cut smack between the uprights 60 yards away to break the scoreless tie, the Minnesota players stood stunned.

"There went the ball game," recalls Gilmour Dobie, the famous coach, who calls this the greatest individual play he ever saw.

Minnesota never recovered from the blow Wisconsin, fired with success, played as if inspired, rode roughshod over the faltering Gobbers, winning 19 to 0.

O'Dea, 6-11, 165, had a punting style peculiarly his own.

As Dobie described it, when the Australian swung his foot into the 80 yards, usually so high that even at those distances ends almost invariably were under the ball.

Australia Rugby Product

Patrick John O'Dea learned his kicking on Rugby fields Down Under, was All-Australian halfback at 16.

The spiral was new to him when he first started at Wisconsin, but he quickly mastered it. He frequently reverted to the style he learned in Australia, however, and his end-over-end punts didn't make it any easier for would-be catchers.

Pat O'Dea put the foot into American football, was Rugby's greatest contribution to it.

NEW RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE ON

Launch Attack at German Defenses Guarding East Prussia

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, Oct. 17.—A great new Russian offensive toward East Prussia started yesterday on both sides of the Lithuanian town of Vilkaviskis. Berlin reported today that the enemy had been observed for days past. "The enemy has started their storm against the German defense lines. Strong artillery fire and severe bombing preceded the attack of tanks and infantry. The Germans put up a stubborn defense and sealed off a few penetrations before they reached East Prussia."

Vilkaviskis lies 12 miles from the central section of the east Prussian border, along which Russian troops have been deployed since Aug. 17.

Other Russian troops besieging Memel are threatening the rail city of Tilsit in East Prussia and already have invaded the 1,000 square miles of Memel territory which Hitler annexed to East Prussia six months before the outbreak of the war.

The War Today

and other surface craft also have been sunk or damaged.

While the Japanese press today continued to feed to a hopeful population such pap as "desperately fleeing enemy warships completely destroyed," Adm. Nimitz quietly announced:

"Carrier aircraft of the Pacific fleet are continuing to attack targets on Luzon island in the Philippines."

Luzon, on which Manila is situated, is the northernmost and biggest of the Philippines. We are, I think, entitled to attach much significance to the persistent assault on Luzon, as the attacks on Nippon's island defenses in this strategic area enters its second week.

It's quite in the cards that we may be witnessing the preliminaries to Gen MacArthur's invasion of the Philippines which he has sworn to redeem.

However, these operations mean far more than the recapture of the Philippines, important as that is. They represent spade-work for the ultimate Allied attack on the Japanese mainland, and for the invasion of the southeast coast of China.

But considering one thing at a time, reclamation of the Philippines will be a killing blow to the Japanese war effort. These islands lie athwart Nippon's vital sea communications with her ill-got Indonesian islands upon which she is dependent for many essential supplies, such as rubber and oil. When we retake the Philippines we will be placing a steel garrote about Japan's neck. Moreover, the Philippines will provide additional naval and air bases from which we can operate against such defensive positions as the mighty island of Formosa, and against Japan itself.

At Salem City hospital:
A son yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Snyder of Columbiana.

He Caused It

When Elmer Torok, 29, above, smashed a 75-cent lock on his locker in a Cleveland, O., war plant, his subsequent discharge by the company set off a series of events which threaten a strike of 70,000 workers in 64 war plants. Torok's union, the Mechanics Educational Society of America, took up his cause, was unsuccessful in obtaining his reinstatement. Strike was called, but later temporarily halted pending conciliation. "Wish I were rid of the whole mess," says Torok.

FUTURE POLICY

ago by encroaching on Korea, the mandated islands given by the League of Nations to Japan under the condition they were not to be fortified, and by agreeing to the arms reduction plans of 1923 and 1930.

Denounces Diplomats' Views

"Japan signed those two armament reduction treaties with England and United States and proceeded to build one of the world's largest armies and navies," while the other two signers complied honestly with the terms of the agreements. She crowned the action with the invasion and annexing of Manchuria.

He denounced the views of diplomats of this nation who believe in a brief military occupation of Japan when she has been defeated, who urge gentle measures in her disarmament to prevent crippling her normal peace-time industry.

Young declared that a Japan, defeated, who is allowed to choose her own form of government, is left the makings of a great armed force, and is permitted a fleet of any size, will be the beginning of a Japan bent on Asian and world domination once more.

Goette, opposing Young's declaration that this nation's Far Eastern policy needs complete scrapping, asserted that in 1931 when Japan invaded Manchuria, there was no readiness in this country for a war with Japan, despite the fact that Japanese acts of aggression, including the sinking of the American ship Panay, were public knowledge.

People's Policy Says Goette

He contended that the government's policy then and now was no more than "the people's" policy and at that time America could not have prevented any Japanese act of aggression by any means other than an act of war.

Refuting Young's declaration that American Far Eastern dealing is outmoded, "hind-sighted" and in need of vigorous, practical leadership, Goette outlined the events which have led to the establishment of China as one of the four great world powers, elevating her from a nation which did not have sovereignty even within its own borders, to a position of world leadership.

In 1942, he related, America abolished the extra-territorial measures by which Westerners in China were not subject to the laws, taxes and provisions of Chinese government. A few months later the acts which excluded Chinese from immigration into this country, by quota were repealed giving them the right to enter on the same basis as other nationalities.

We have not promised China the return of territories which Japan has taken from her, even to the island of Formosa, seized by the Japanese in 1895. China's importance and her position in the world have been elevated by a diplomatic program in the Far East, which, Goette averred, would not have been possible under a system which was outmoded and decadent.

Will Have Only Small Voice

Discussing the problem of handling Japan when she has been militarily defeated, Goette pointed out that America will have only a small voice in the decisions of peace measures. Russia, China, England and all other smaller nations, which together or individually, are enough to minimize American pressure, must be given their share in the plans, he said.

He denied that any completely military occupation of Japan, or a military occupation of long duration, would be feasible, due to the tremendous cost and to the fundamental difference between ours and other forms of government. To "destroy Japanese military strength completely in order to set up our own there" would be to prove our own concept inadequate.

"Any plan," Goette said, "for handling Japan must depend upon the Japan we will face at the end of the war—a Japan which will not be the one we faced a few years ago nor the one we are facing today. We have learned how to fight a war, and we will learn how to deal with Japan. We will have to learn and we will, for American spirit, ingenuity and determination will provide the answer."

Defeat Must Be Complete

Agreeing on only two things, Young and Goette were definite in their opinions that "the defeat of Japan must be complete and certain, and every Japanese must know it." They continued to differ, however on a method to be used in convincing Japan of her defeat and a solution to the problem of keeping Japan ever from acquiring too much power again and at the same time, giving her a chance to care of herself.

Young argued in rebuttal that

AND NOW CHET COPE PUTS IN HIS 2 CENTS' WORTH

He hooked one! No, not a fish, his friend in the boat. Just an accident, but they haven't spoken since and a suit was filed by the lawyer. Public Liability insurance, or who knows how much money, is the only way out. Maybe the jury will decide not to award damage but lawyers and courts are expensive. Public Liability insurance will pay for these costs if you are sued and in many cases save you from going to court. You'll be surprised to know what ten dollars will buy.

Health League To Open Headquarters In Lisbon

LISBON, Oct. 17.—Columbiana County Public Health league will hold open house Wednesday at the group's new quarters on N. Market st. Miss Lillian Schroeder, executive secretary, announced today. The public is invited to visit the rooms during the day. An executive board meeting will be held in the evening.

We should take and keep all the mandated islands between the United States and China, including Formosa where we should establish a navy base, we should establish airbases in Alaska between us, Russia and the Japanese; that we should set up a 25-year military government in Japan and have no diplomatic dealing with Japan in any form.

Goette, answering Young, voiced the opinion that a Japan defeated will be automatically, a disarmed Japan, because as long as a Japanese has arms he will continue to fight, and when he no longer has them, he will be convinced in his own mind that he is defeated.

"When Japan has lost this war, she will not be sorry that she started it, but sorry that she lost it. Thus, 'grinding them down' will merely serve to strengthen her determination to someday stage a war she will win and start preparations for that eventually."

"The Japanese must be given a chance for survival, to keep them from hanging like a millstone about our necks, so that America will have to take care of them forever."
